8. How to prepare for a GMP microgram in Peacham

start thinking about your critical infrastructure – what is it – where is it – i.e. communications facilities, shelters – creating some kind of map could be really helpful and is usually the first step when deciding what is key for resiliency. And then any understanding on space if it were to be a solar + storage system – is there roof space or any ground space that could accept a project for example.

(Robert Dostis, GMP)
